Raising Funds for Small Business

For advertising, marketing & public relations

[Stockbridge, GA August 24th, 2020] It has been over a year since the establishment of BeaversDen – General Media. And while the market may be alarming and unstable for many businesses, BeaversDen – General Media is getting better by the day. That's not to brag or anything. What that means is that, the mission of BeaversDen has been to stand behind and support small businesses as they face uncertainty and risk. The support that I, Glenn R. Beaver, Jr. offer is a scarce resource in the realm of panic and cutthroat capitalism. BeaversDen is here to engage with business owners, devise a marketing strategy and advertising campaign while helping these businesses to solidify relationships where the support is needed most with a PWA called Devotee: an app specifically for small business clients. The development of a stronghold in such an unstable market is what its going to take, and, it is guaranteed BeaversDen – General Media will be there in lockstep with small businesses all across the US in such an evolutionary market shift. I offer creatives, campaigns and consultations at an unbelievable level of commitment. What I offer through BeaversDen is unique in the way that the advertising, marketing and public relations projects are highly probable in making the right reach at an affordable price.

To increase the impact of helping small business brace for the economy, please help to provide assistance in keeping the costs low for small business owners. And to specify, BeaversDen – General Media is for small business (and eCommerce) only. It will be my pleasure.

My best,

Glenn R. Beaver, Jr.
